Weather and Clothing: Think flexible, stay flexible

Iceland writes its own weather rules. Sun, rain, wind – often all in one day. That's why we recommend: the layering principle. Dress in layers so you can react spontaneously.

Wind: The invisible travel companion

The wind is always present in Iceland – sometimes whispering, sometimes demanding. Be mindful when opening car doors. Even for drone shots, keep an eye on the wind conditions. And if sand is involved: Leave the cleaning of vehicles to the mechanics – one extra wipe might leave more traces than intended.

Internet and Mobile: Well connected

Iceland surprises: even in remote areas, the internet is surprisingly reliable. Whether uploads, live streams, or navigation – you stay connected.
